Founded in 1821 in Montreal, McGill University is an institution renowned for its academic excellence and cutting-edge research. With a diverse international community, it stands out for its innovative programs and commitment to social impact. Its historic campus and modern facilities foster an environment conducive to learning and collaboration. Globally recognized, McGill attracts exceptional students and researchers, contributing to its prominence in numerous fields.

The objective: Optimize the space to combine comfort and functionality

This pavilion at McGill University was once a hotel, which is why the rooms are spacious. This allowed Logiflex to create several wall-mounted storage solutions, enabling students to easily store their personal belongings.

The integration of electrical outlets directly into the headboards provides practical and convenient power solutions near the beds.

“This project was a great opportunity to rethink the space to make it more practical and pleasant, while meeting the students' needs with clever and modern furnishings.”

– Marc Pelletier, Business Development, Logiflex
