Here is how to set up your workplace

Workspace

Set up a designated space with officequality furniture. Your desk should be at an appropriate height and sturdy enough to support the weight of all your equipment. Lighting should be bright, but not blinding

Find a good chair

Every part of the chair should be adjustable. Make sure the lumbar support, elbow rests and seat height can adapt to you and the way you move throughout the day. Use a footrest or something to elevate your feet if they do not comfortably reach the floor

Laptops are not designed for prolonged use

Laptops are not posture-friendly. If you must use one, get a separate mouse and keyboard positioned at elbow height, as well as a wrist rest. Raise your laptop or monitor so that the screen is at eye level.

Listen to your body

New pressure points can help you pinpoint tweaks you need to make. If your neck hurts, make sure to raise your monitor's height and use a headset or speaker to maintain a neutral neck posture when you are on the phone.

Mental health

Stay connected and keep in touch with your colleagues. Avoid overworking that could lead to a burnout by taking short breaks as you would at the office. A little stroll to the printer or a chat with a co-worker gives you the chance to change positions, which will not happen at home.

Commercial quality in the comfort of your own home

Need an elegant, minimalist desk designed for your home? Meet Cake, Logiflex's collection of comfortable, practical desks with clean modern lines. To make your home office functional and ergonomic, personalize it with efficient accessories that will improve your productivity and keep you connected.

Approved layouts

Furniture from the Cake collection is available in two color schemes: Chiffon and Polar White, as well as Asha (CIY) and Slate (C). These layouts have been carefully chosen by our design team. Thanks to these, Logiflex redefines wood and makes sure to be on the lookout for rustic trends, but also the most modern styles.
